

DESTRUCTION IN THE BIG STORM

Honolulu Plantation Engineer May Have Been Drowned.

MINUTE GUNS HEARD OFF PEARL HARBOR MAY MEAN SHIP ON REEF

Rain Swells the Streams and the City is Flooded in Many Districts Causing Heavy Losses to Owners.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

Death and havoc rode on the storm of yesterday

From various parts of the island come stories of devastation and missing people while Honolulu and the countryside are greatly damaged by the torrents that poured from the skies

The rainfall was unprecedented. In many places it seemed a veritable cloudburst.

The streets of the city were nearly impassable for several hours last evening and in a number of localities the water was feet deep and pedestrians were compelled to wade in water above their knees to cross the streets

The residents along the shore heard minute guns fired between 9 and 10 o'clock last night off Black Point and word was sent to the Spreckels Tug-boat Company and the Fearless prepared to go to the supposed scene of shipwreck. It was guessed by those who heard the guns that some ship was on the reef. The Fearless got up steam before 11 o'clock and prepared for a rush trip but failing to get any particulars did not move.

AT HONOLULU PLANTATION

Manager Low of Honolulu Plantation telephoned the Advertiser last night of the trouble in that vicinity.

Assistant Engineer Bill Naone is believed to be drowned.

Manager Low said "The rain from 5 o'clock was incessant and it soon became evident that we must expect pillars. It was the worst at Waimalu and in the mountains looked to be a cloudburst. The thunder and lightning was fearful and the water came down as never before.

Houses were washed away and rice and banana patches flooded. Bridges went like twigs. I have heard of one house containing a native woman and a Japanese family which was washed down the Waimalu stream against the railroad bridge.

"Much damage was done to our plantation. We have two large pumps in a pump pit thirty feet deep and the water in the Waimalu stream overflowing filled the pit. Engineer Jim Smith our chief, who was for ten years the first assistant engineer on the Australia, was down in the pit with two Japanese oilers and Naore the night engineer, was with another oiler.

When they saw the flood was coming at half past four o'clock they had shut off the pumps and at 5:30 o'clock they descended into the pit to shut off the valve so as to check the back pressure on the engine.

"While in the pit the flood came roaring in and they struggled for their lives. Two of the air valves exploded. When the first valve went off Smith stayed on, but when the second exploded he broke for the top. Then came the water and all made desperate efforts to reach the surface.

"Naone was not seen afterward and his helper says that he did not reach the stairway. Engineer Smith thinks Naone got out before he did. We cannot find him, however, at his home or anywhere. We can make no search until tomorrow. Our damage to the pumps will be $2,000. It will be at least a week or ten days before we can work the pumps again but we will have lots of water as the storm has taken care of that."

STORM IN HONOLULU.

"I have seen but two such storms in twenty years where the floods have carried so much destruction with them," said an old resident living on River street, last evening to an Advertiser reporter who made an investigation of the damage done along the entire street and side streets. The speaker surveyed the effects of the flood which had overflowed the banks of Nuuanu stream. The first of the two storms he mentioned was in the spring of 1888 when the stream arose until the bridges were just swept with the torrent which tore down the river bed from the valleys above. The second was the one which came down last night.

During the height of the freshet which was about 7 o'clock the water rose until all the bridges from King street to Vineyard were covered with a foot of water. The bridges were the means by which the surrounding country was inundated and so much property destroyed.

KING STREET BRIDGE

At King street the bridge was menaced for a time. Great logs of wood came floating down on the angry torrent and lodging against the heavy piers formed a mesh which threatened to dislodge them. A number of natives and Chinese braved the flood and leaning over as far as much of the wood as possible and thus probably averted bridge disaster there. Aina Park was under water and the flood which came down the streets filled every available depression in the surrounding property. St Louis College was in a miniature lake. The entire premises were flooded and the buildings stood out of the ponds lonely and desolate. Gardens lies on either side. At this point the river wall slopes downward until it makes a depression of at least three feet below the rest of the wall. The waters poured over this low wall into the premises of the Every man, and filled his stable with feet of water. The high street vented the flood from making any hole on the makai side.

Great torrents came rushing

Vineyard street from Ewa-wards sweeping over on the makai side away part of the roadway and undermined the supports of many buildings and stables on the sidewalk. The Judd street performed the work as their countrymen had done

Kukui street bridge. They ran a long embankment made of bags filled with earth and precipitating several of the work men knee deep in the holes.

On the Waikiki side of the stream above the Vineyard street bridge the sidewalk was undermined and the earth beneath the embankment gave way. The sidewalk disappeared into the stream, the stone wall forming a perfect arch.

At the Judd street culvert there was considerable danger to the new structure exposed to the torrent. The street department intended taking away the false work today but they were saved the trouble. The torrent swept the timbers down the stream and into the sea. The culvert was not damaged.

WHAT CAMPBELL SAYS

Marston Campbell, Road Supervisor, made a tour of the City last evening to ascertain the extent of the damage done in Palama he found most of the district inundated. Many of the houses had a foot of water resting on the floors.

In Kewalo the entire district was a hollow of mud and dirty water which had collected from every street in the city Waikiki of Fort street. Not a house there escaped. The sewer trenches became the natural beds of water-course during the storm and were washed away or filled in with a deposit of mud. Kakaako was served in the same manner as Kewalo.

Along Beretania and King streets he found filth and mud spread thickly. He will put all the teams possible on these thoroughfares today to scrape off the debris.

Fort street was an object lesson by which the Government should profit. During the storm at noon and the one in the evening the street was filled with a rushing freshet from curb to curb, most of which was diverted into Queen street, which became impassable for pedestrians. Mr Campbell says that the freshet on Fort street and the terrible condition which prevailed at the corner of Fort and King streets should cause the Government to put in catch basins to carry off the surface water.

Waikiki received its share of rain and valley freshets. It is a peculiar coincidence that the storm which occurred last year on March 5, while the Princess Kaiulani was hovering between life and death, and which inundated Honolulu's district under a sheet of water, should be repeated yesterday, the anniversary of her birth.

The cellar of Hart & Co., in the Elite building, was flooded last evening, but the water was pumped into the cesspool later in the evening.

The Queen's Hospital premises were flooded. A torrent nearly two feet deep rushed down Miller street, joining another which came down Punchbowl street, and both turned into the beautiful premises. There was no opportunity for pedestrians to cross from one street to another in any of the district above Beretania street. Much of the damage to property will be in the deposits of mud and silt.

A telephone message from Pearl City last night stated there had been a light, refreshing rain which the residents appreciated.

THE MAN IS DEAD,THE WOMAN IS DYING

an, but if he wished to have papers drawn up for a divorce they would act for him. He did not wish to do this, and made threats that he would kill his wife if she would let her live with the paramour whom she had named.

On Monday Stelgemann came to the office of the attorneys and told them that he could do nothing with his wife. The attorneys went with him to see Mrs. Stelgemann, who had taken up a residence at the Honolulu Hotel, on Nuuanu street near Vineyard street, on Sunday. She had one room—No. 14. One of the attorneys pleaded with her to return to her husband. He used every persuasion known to him, and especially the teachings of her religion, but to no purpose.

Yesterday morning the papers for the trial of divorce were prepared and Stelgemann in the afternoon came up to see him. He even paid over to the attorneys the money necessary to bring the suit. He wanted them filed at once, believing that the confession his wife had made was a true one and that there was no need for further delay. The attorneys told him to make one further attempt at a reconciliation and make use of certain Hebrew persuasions which are generally of the utmost effect in such cases.

Mrs. Stelgemann was educated in the Girls' School at Jaffa, established by Baron Hirsch, and given all the education which the Jewish maidens receive in a school so well endowed by the great philanthropist. The husband was educated at Jerusalem in the agricultural school established by Baron Rothschild. She is young, not more than 23 years old.

It is said that Mrs. Stelgemann consulted an attorney as to her side of the case and upon learning that in the event of a suit for divorce being instituted against her on the charge of adultery, she would lose the control and custody of her children, she stated that the confession she had made of adultery with Berry was trumped up and there was no truth in it.

The man Berry could not be found by the police last evening, although they have been searching for him ever since the shooting occurred. It is possible that his name may be spelled in the German fashion, "Behrie," although no such man is known in the City.

Proprietor McDowell states that Mrs.

Stelgemann and Berry came to his place on Saturday evening and announced themselves as man and wife and secured a room there. He suspected nothing until on Sunday Stelgemann came with his wife and he had a long quarrel and Stelgemann went away alone. On Monday evening Berry did not come there and when he saw Mrs. Stelgemann next, McDowell told her that she would have to leave the house. Mrs. Stelgemann said she would go as soon as she could find another place.

He did not see Berry again save for a moment yesterday morning, when he and Mrs. Stelgemann came in together, Berry going out again shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Stelgemann's father for several years kept a small store on King street just east of the little alleyway leading to the postoffice. His daughter and her two little children were often to be seen sitting in the doorway of the place. Until a few weeks ago Stelgemann was in partnership in this little place, but they had business differences and the old gentleman gave up his interest in the place and moved to the other side of King street just opposite the Union Grill. The old gentleman was exceedingly averse to notoriety and refused utterly to give his name either to the newspaper men or to the police.

A SERIOUS SUBJECT.

For You, For Anyone—Honolulu Has Taken It Up—Local Testimony Speaks For Itself.

When you work too hard what follows? You are tired, aren't you? You stoop over at some occupation. You strain yourself lifting. You walk too far, or ride too far. You call this overexertion. You cannot sleep when night comes.

Your back aches, your head aches, often you ache all over. Oh, you say it's because I'm tired out.

Now this isn't right. It's because your kidneys are tired.

They can only do just so much, and the lifting, stooping or straining has retarded their action.

The heart has pumped the blood into them faster than they could filter it. The filter is overtaxed and becomes clogged.

They cry for assistance in the many aches that follow.

Nothing starts the kidneys working so quickly as Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

We say so, and people right here in Honolulu are endorsing it.

Mrs. Emma Vieira, of King street, this city, says: "For three or four years I had the misfortune to be afflicted with an aching back. The pain and discomfort this entailed on me can be better imagined than described. I have two children, and it was of course difficult for me to attend to them while oppressed with suffering. The way in which I found relief eventually was by using Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, procured at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. They did me a large amount of good, as I now testify. I should certainly recommend those who have backache or any other form of kidney trouble to try Doan's Backache Kidney Pills."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50). Mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Ltd., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

NEW MALARIA CURE.

An Important Discovery by Bacteriologist Koch.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 7.—Dr. Robert Koch, the world-renowned bacteriologist of Berlin, reached Hongkong last month on his way home from New Guinea, where he has been engaged in investigations for the prevention of malaria under the auspices of the German Government. He announced his discovery of a means of curing and preventing malaria diseases. By compounding quinine and other drugs, Dr. Koch created a medicine which was given freely to natives of New Guinea for both curative and preventive purposes.

One night last week two well-known attorneys were walking up Nuuanu street and at the corner of Nuuanu and Kukui they met a man dressed only in a pair of trousers and an undershirt. He was wild-eyed and in a state of excitement. It was Stelgemann.

He knew the attorneys and wildly asked how many years a man would get in prison for shooting his wife. The attorneys calmed him down and he then related the story of his family troubles.

His wife, he said, was living in the Honolulu Hotel with the man she had named as her paramour, and he wanted to shoot them both. Stelgemann was taken to the attorney's room, which was near by, and a search was made of him, but no weapons were found. They told him to come to their office the next day, when he did.

There the full story was told. He said his wife had confessed to him over and again that she loved one Berry and that she wanted a divorce from her husband. The confession was made in the presence of her father.

He proposed that his wife be arrested for adultery and prosecuted on that charge. This the attorneys refused to do, stating they would not prosecute a woman.

CAME NEAR DYING.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different remedies, but to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that the first word I do on going to the office is to write to the manufacturers of this remedy and offer them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make.' This remedy is for sale by all dealers and druggists, Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents, Hawaiian Territory.

WILCOX AND THE NATIVES.

Robert Wilcox talks of the services he has rendered the natives, but he fails to make it clear what those services, civil or military, ever brought them.

"I am the only man in Hawaii who knows anything about military tactics," says the modest Garibaldian. Indeed? Then why did he not offer them to the natives and their Queen at the time when her throne was in peril and a hundred or two armed men with Charley Wilson—a leader with more courage in his little finger than Wilcox has in his whole carcass—was making a last stand for the Monarchy at the Police station?

In the troublous times of 1893 Wilcox, the self-styled native leader, was conspicuously harmless. We do not recall whether he was hiding in a gas tank or the crater of Diamond Head; we only know that some three weeks after the overthrow he appeared in the drill shed and made an annexation speech.

When the Hawaiians were importuning Col. Blount in behalf of the dynasty where was Wilcox?

When delegations were going to Washington to appeal to President Cleveland, where was Wilcox?

Was he here acting as a spy?

We ask the question because the late Marshal Hitchcock then employed Mrs. Wilcox to bring him information about the inside workings of the Royalists party. Did Wilcox help consume the profits of this treachery?

The truth is that the Wilcox pair have been the evil genius of the natives ever since they entered public life. Wilcox got out of the trouble he led them into in 1889 by laying the blame on the King, his Alii. His blundering revolution of 1895 got the Queen and a host of her friends imprisoned. And now he is debating whether to sell out or to try and go to Washington and lobby for the Crown Lands claim with which Mrs. Wilcox hopes to deprive the Queen of what Iliuokalani considers to be her own just possessions.

A vote cast for Wilcox is one which no self respecting Hawaiian could return in his cooler moments without a blush of shame. Surely there is some one more representative of Hawaiian manhood than this skulking creature who never led the natives to anything but the quicksand and the precipice and then sent them on ahead.

AN ISSUE FROM THE TOMB.

The idea that the Constitution follows the flag is an exploded Democratic fallacy. Democrats invented it in pro-slavery times to support the introduction of human bondage into the new Territories and Republicans opposed it in the interests of human freedom. When they got the chance Republicans provided, in the text of the thirteenth amendment to the Constitution, for a recognition of the sovereignty of the flag over regions where the privileges of citizenship are at the same time withheld from the inhabitants. Alaska was taken and held for years as an American pseudo-colony where even the right to have a legislature was denied. And there is no legislative or municipal organization in Alaska now, the government being that of public sentiment and the military.

The President and Congress, by recognizing a transition colonial government in Hawaii for two years; in recognizing an indefinite colonial government in Porto Rico ever since its annexation; and in governing the Philippines without the assent of their inhabitants, acts upon the Republican interpretation of the organic law. That interpretation is buttressed by many decisions of the Federal bench. It is contradicted only in any important way, by the decisions rendered by a Democratic Supreme Court in the days before the war.

THE QUEEN'S HOSPITAL

The Queen's Hospital needs money and ought to have it. At the same time the institution is badly placed and is so utterly out of date in the matter of its buildings and equipment as to deprive it of some of that interested public sympathy which might get help for it from the Legislature.

If it is possible to sell the land where the hospital is now placed enough money might be realized from it to build a modern structure for which the Government could perhaps be induced to donate a site on some of its higher lands where such a hospital ought to go. Down on the low levels where a breeze rarely stirs the leaves of the too-numerous shade trees, where rain does not run off the ground and where heat, humidity and mosquitoes abound is a wretched place for a hospital. Of course in the old days when the high ground was not accessible and when the Beretania and Punchbowl neighborhood was not shut out from the breezes, there was an excuse for choosing that site. There may have been other strong reasons. As things are now the hills are in touch with the city through a fine road system and rapid transit is on the way. A site somewhere back of the Makiki reservoir or on the Punchbowl slope would be ideal. The objection of distance from the center of the city might be met by having a small receiving hospital down town for emergency cases. At any rate the move to a better site and the acquisition of proper buildings ought to be made providing the charter of the Queen's Hospital will permit the necessary transfer of old realty. If not it is quite in order to have a new hospital under other auspices.

The Chinese court does not propose to take any foreign risks and is about to move further into the wilds of Shensi. It is probable that a new capital will be founded, as Peking is too near the coast.

ALL HONOLULU SOCIETY SAW THE HAPPY COUPLE WEDDED

ALL Honolulu society flocked to St. Andrew's Cathedral last evening to witness the wedding of Frederic C. Smith and Miss Alice E. Wall.

It was one of the most notable society events of the opening of the season and was the prettiest wedding that has taken place for some time past in this City.

The grey old church seemed scarcely itself so gaily had it been decked out for the occasion. The whole chancel had been buried in palms and flowering plants and the massive pillars were all wreathed with green ivy, while overhead had been draped with white chiffon covered with a green tracery of ferns.

The decorations were most tasteful throughout and were under the care of Mrs. J. M. Riggs, Miss Lily Paty and Miss Kathleen Ward.

The church was filled to the doors with the guests and friends of the bride and groom before 8 o'clock struck, while out of doors hundreds who had been unable to obtain admission, men in evening dress and ladies in light gowns stood in the semi-darkness where the light streamed from the doors and looked and watched.

It was a few moments after 8 o'clock when Wray Taylor at the great organ struck up the soft strains of the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" and all necks were craned for the first view of the wedding party.

First came the ushers, Walter E. Wall and A. F. Wall, brothers of the bride, and R. W. Shingle and W. H. Babbitt, then the maid of honor, Miss Sadie Carter.

She was followed by little Miss Muriel Howatt, a sweet little one with flowing flaxen hair, strewing flowers in the path of the bride. Miss Wall came next leaning on the arm of her brother, T. E. Wall.

She was clad in a simple but rich gown of white silk with long flowing veil. Following her was little Master Douglas Damon as page.

At the chancel the wedding party was joined by the groom with his best man Walter Dillingham and Rev. Alexander Lee.

The ushers proceeded to the choir while the groom stepped to the side of his bride and the ceremony began.

LIPTON WILL SEEK THE CUP AGAIN

Challenge was Sent to New York
for an August Race.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Sir Thomas Lipton, later in the day, informed a representative of the Associated Press that his challenge is on board the White Star steamer Germanic, due at New York Thursday, and that he prefers that all information as to its contents be given out by the New York Yacht Club. The letter challenging contains a suggestion as to the date of the race, which, it is understood, will be in August.

It is reported that the challenge yacht will be built on the Thames and that she will be named Shamrock.

According to rumor, Robert Winge, one of the commanders of the old Shamrock, will command the new racer.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—It is reported here that a challenge from Sir Thomas Lipton for another series of races for the America's cup reached the New York Yacht Club this morning. At the office of Sir Thomas Lipton today, the report that his challenge had reached New York was denied. It appears, however, that it was recently mailed or that it is about to be sent to New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—J. S. Vade, secretary of the New York Yacht Club, said that a letter was received today from Sir Thomas Lipton, announcing that the Lipton cup for seventy-footers in the Germanic, due here tomorrow. There was no challenge, he said.

NEEDS OF THE ARTILLERY.

Not Enough Men to Care for the Artillery.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Accompanying the report of Major General Brooke, commander of the Department of the West, to the War Department, was a report by Major Story, Seventh Artillery Inspector. Major Story states that the personnel of the artillery is manifestly inadequate to serve the armament already mounted, and he believes there is such general recognition of this fact that there will be an increase in artillery forces at the coming session of Congress.

It should be remarked in this connection, he says, that the enlisted force required for one rifle to serve the modern coast armament in the United States is estimated at 15,000 men, yet on the 30th of last June the enlisted strength of the heavy batteries in the department amounted to only 4,882 men, and of these quite a number of artillery soldiers are required by the exigencies of the service to garrison posts which are not properly artillery stations.

"It may also be stated that, with the exception of the artillery school at Fort Monroe, Va., there is not in any important harbor in the United States even the minimum number of officers required by the coast artillery regulations for the service of the modern armament, five control and direction."

Major Story comments upon the artillery reorganization bill now pending in Congress, and says it is a serious defect of the measure that it does not supply sufficient officers for staff administration. "The number of officers now absent from their batteries," he says, "is probably in excess of 40 per cent, and there is no prospect in the near future of improvement in this respect. If the bill passes in its present form this unfortunate condition will be aggravated, since officers must be withdrawn from the batteries for staff administration. It is therefore earnestly recommended that the artillery be put upon the same basis as infantry or cavalry in providing officers for staff work."

POSTOFFICE RULES MUST BE KEPT

Patrons Must Remember the United States Regulates Matters Now.

The registry department of the post-office is having considerable trouble with patrons who fail to observe the rules which the United States Postoffice Department imposes on all the postoffices under its direction.

Louis Kenake, mail superintendent of the local postoffice, states that hereafter all mail presented at the registry division must be properly stamped, the stamps for which must be purchased at the window especially designed for that purpose. No stamps will be sold upstairs in the registry division.

The rate for registering letters is 8 cents. This is the regular fee. In addition to this postage must be added according to the weight of the letter or package. Domestic rates on first-class matter is 2 cents per ounce; second-class, 1 cent for four ounces; third-class, 1 cent for two ounces; fourth-class, 1 cent per ounce.

Foreign rates on first-class is 5 cents per half ounce; second and third classes, 1 cent per two ounces. On fourth-class domestic matter, the limit of weight is placed at four pounds.

Mailsandise is not allowable except true, legitimate trade samples. The limit for samples is twelve ounces. Merchandise has to be sent at first-class rates. There is no parcel post in operation, that branch of the Hawaiian service having been discontinued on June 14th.

"The United States Government has proposed to the powers to insist that Prince Yuan be behaved; that the Emperor be induced to go to Peking to form a government of progressive, under the support of European bayonets, and that the Empress Dowager be deposed." So says a London paper.

TRIUMPHANT REPUBLICANISM TELLS ITS STORY

Brilliant Speakers at the Orpheum Theater Make Plain the Truths of the Grand Old Party.

VINCIBLE REPUBLICANISM spoke YOUNG MEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB. In an uncertain tone on "Oahu" last night. In a parade of stalwarts never before equalled in the Hawaiian Islands and an evening of speeches inside and outside the Orpheum, the people of Honolulu told their allegiance to the grand old party of America in decisive expression.

There was one parade, there were two meetings. The parade was made up almost wholly of men whose faces bespeak their Hawaiian blood. Those who joined in the long and brilliant procession were natives of the soil, whose ranks were swelled by their white brothers, the members of the Young Men's Republican Club.

Those who have predicted a victory for Democracy or for the anti-haoles party might well have been dismayed by the scene last night. Along the streets where the parade passed thousands of spectators—men, women and children—shouted their enthusiasm and hurried for the success of Parker and his party.

MAKEUP OF PARADE.

Long serried lines of Hawaiians showing the soldierly training they have received in the military service of the old Hawaiian Government, marched to the drum-beat of Republicanism. They presented a fine sight. There were five companies of men under captains who know what discipline means and had instilled it into the men who bore the torches in the ranks.

The hundreds of torches lit up the streets with a glare which pleased the boys. Some carried Roman candles and sticks of red fire. A shower of sparks fell over the multitude throughout the parade, but everybody was good-humored and didn't mind if a few sparks went down their collars and scorched them a little bit.

Mr. Coelho gave a graphic account in the Hawaiian language of the scenes attending Sam Parker's tour of triumph on the Island which he calls his home. He told the story of the duplicity of "Bob" Wilcox in winning $100 from the old Hawaiian who trusted him, when the former did not mind if a few sparks went down their collars and scorched them a little bit.

As the line passed down Hotel street and came beneath the handsome illuminated banner of Parker which stretches over the street in front of the Republican headquarters, red and green fire was burned in abundance, big bombs were exploded and from the windows of the headquarters hundreds of Roman candles were discharged. The marchers cheered the Parker banner as they passed under it.

At the Orpheum President Lorrin Andrews of the Young Men's Republican Club held the band there while the uniformed men passed on to the drill shed, where they were dismissed. The parade began and ended in a blaze of glory.

IN THE ORPHEUM.

Long before the appointed hour for the speeches to begin at the Orpheum the auditorium of the playhouse was packed from orchestra to the rear seat in the gallery, and Manager Cohen felt impelled to hang out the "Standing Room Only" sign from force of habit.

The boxes were reserved for ladies and prominent members of the party who are working for Republican success in Hawaii. The foyer and gallery entrances were packed with a mass of humanity which spoke volumes for the following which the Republican party has in Honolulu, and indicates its strength on Oahu.

Members of the Young Men's Republican Club acted as ushers and prevented any confusion arising in the seating and the standing of the multitude. There were hundreds who were unable to procure seats. Even in the wings of the stage many persons were seated. There was a large number of ladies present who were as attentive to the speakers as were the voters.

Shortly before 9 o'clock the president of the Club, Lorrin Andrews, Hon. Henry Waterhouse, T. McCants Stewart, W. H. Coers, Chas. W. Wilcox, C. C. Bitting, George D. Gear, W. J. Coelho, A. B. Wood, P. L. Weaver, Judge Kanakuk, J. H. Fisher, William Arlett, Dr. Hardy, John C. Lane, L. L. McCandless, Archie Cullinan and George R. Carter came upon the stage and occupied the seats placed for them behind the president's table.

OVERFLOW MEETING

President Andrews announced that as there was such an immense attendance, and as no half could enter the theater, an overflow meeting would be held outside and the speakers would address the overflow audience from the steps of the ed American political campaign. But when you come to realize that now we are a part of that great country, the day will be glad to know that you are all citizens see a campaign as it is conducted in the richest, the grandest, the greatest and best Government that the Almighty ever populated the earth with. Under the popular constituency of our United States Government party dissensions always cause feeling, and they are the salvation of the country. It never does for one man to any one power to run everything for a time. If they did so, political parties would become corrupt.

DEMOCRATS ARE GROWLERS.

"It seems to be the essence of human nature for our ideas to expand and basically we wish to bottle up everything if we are always in power. But you who are strangers to these political principles which have been acquired in the growth of our grand country, you to whom they are all new, I say, are the ones to become familiar with the principles.

"What about the Democrats?" I would like to know what Democratic speaker has been upon this stage and told you anything good about your country? What has he been doing but growling? He is not real born growler. (Laughter) He is reared on growling. Look at the condition in the administration of Grover Cleveland and left the country in.

"I heard a Democrat say from this stage the other night that he had been trained to become a Democrat by studying Cleveland's administration. What did I ask? It left the United States Treasury so perfectly that when the Republican administration came into power it had to borrow money to keep up its credit. That is the same party which was responsible for the condition of the country in the years before McKinley began to manipulate affairs. The richest and grandest country on the face of the earth, since McKinley was elected, has been confronted by war, which was met like the United States always meets great questions of that kind—first with kindness, with every effort to mollify and to save bleedshed, and then with the strong hand. All I ask of you to do is to vote the Republican ticket next November and send Sam Parker to Washington if you wish to derive benefits."

JOHN LANE, THE CONVERT.

John Lane, the recent convert to Republicanism and now a candidate on the Representative ticket from the Fifth District, spoke in strong words to his constituents. His speech was very short but his opinions were keen and he received unstinted applause. He said:

"Fellow-citizens, I am one of the candidates on the Republican ticket and if you would understand the principles of the Republican party, you will join with that party, as I did. During the old days I was one of the strongest Aloha Alans and did not want to lose our Hawaiian flag. Finally, however, we lost our flag of independence and have come into this new period.

"We are not going to carry on political issues as we did during the days of the monarchy. It is as Kauila has said, 'The King must fight the brain.'

The Republican party is the party that feeds the slaves and that is the party we should uphold. It was not a Democrat that presented the petition of the people of Hawaii protesting against annexation. It was presented by Senator Hoar, a man who is to be a man that has always stood by for the sake of the people in the cause of the people, and again to do stand for the same purpose."

"You don't think me qualified, then vote for me.

"I should be elected, the first thing the committee that will be in the bill in hard. The committee that will be in the Hawaii flag made our flag.

"I assure you that you all have my head comes off.

"I know me to be a man that has always stood by for the sake of the people in the cause of the people, and again to do stand for the same purpose."

"You don't think me qualified, then vote for me.

"I should be elected, the first thing the committee that will be in the bill in hard. The committee that will be in the Hawaii flag made our flag.

"I assure you that you all have my head comes off.

"I know me to be a man that has always stood by for the sake of the people in the cause of the people, and again to do stand for the same purpose."

GEORGE GEAR ON WILCOX.

George D. Gear was the next speaker.

He made a telling speech on the falsehoods which Wilcox has uttered to his followers, of the great work that he (Wilcox) did in Washington for the Hawaiian people. He said the lie which Wilcox has so freely passed around that he was the one who gained for the Hawaiians their right of franchise, and he read extracts from a letter which Caesar Celseo

Morino had directed to him which was full of scathing references to the Carta Cid, who had deceived even him

Caesar Celseo. These references brought out rounds of applause.

In opening his speech, Mr. Gear said:

"I have ventured to speak here tonight not to give you a sample of oratory but to give you plain facts of what came under my observation of the various candidates while they were in Washington.

"Before I do that I want to call your attention to some statements that were made from this stage by the Democrats a few nights ago. One of them stated that it ought to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every Hawaiian who did not vote for his alt., for the descendant of one of the kings of Kauai. He gave that is Democratic doctrine, I say that the man who has the cheek to say that and does not blush, is adamant, for the principles of that platform are that all men are born free and equal.

"We are under the beneficent protection of the United States and we are all free and equal. There is not a man who is letter than his relation in the eyes of the law and of the Constitution of the United States. (Applause.)

"In Washington there stands a pillar

On its top is a figure of a man in stone.

The figure looks as though the burdens of the world were resting on its shoulders. That is Abraham Lincoln. That is the man who gave to the colored race of the South their freedom. I was a Republican for that reason. You gentlemen who are babies in the party don't know what that means. The Democratic party boasts of the Solid South. Why? Because they were all for slavery. It was the South that wanted slavery and it was the South that brought on the war.

"It was in the Senate chamber in the Capitol at Washington that I heard Senator Tillman of South Carolina say, in qualification. That is what I heard the Republicans say. If I thought the Democratic party was right, I would probably vote for it, but it is the party of free trade and free lunches." (Laughter.)

Mr. Gear told a story of assuring a Democrat the difference between the Democrat party and the lunch which Mr.

Gear says the Democrats enjoy every day at the Hawaiian Hotel. Of course the answer was, "The Democratic party is 13 at 1 and the free lunch 12 to 2."

"Sam Parker, Prince David and Wilcox were in Washington at the same time,"

said the speaker. "I was also there,

I am a personal friend of David and enjoy his friendship, but politically I must come out and say that the only man in whom there is safety for the Hawaiian is Samuel Parker. I have seen in Parker's room at the hotel we were stopped in Washington as many as a dozen of the leading Senators of the Republican party at one time. Gentlemen, that's something you don't understand the force of. In the United States a man has got to be a leader for any of the members of the Senate to come and see him. Sam Parker just drew them to him,

Parker has a manner which catches the people. You all know that. You don't go to David or Wilcox when you want help. You go to Sam Parker and he doesn't turn you away, either. (Applause.)

PARKER IS MAGNETIC.

"The Democrats and Independents can say that Parker was not doing anything in Washington or was not in it with the President. That is not true. I know that

Sam Parker with Senator Clark, was in the White House with the President for over two hours, and that is something which is not accorded to every one President McKinley has the greatest aloha for

Sam Parker. He wants you to send that

Sam Parker to Washington as Delegate.

"I saw David there. We went around and had plenty of fun. He is not the man with the same influence and responsibility on his shoulders that Sam Parker has and can carry.

"Wilcox was there. He reminded me of a little dog led along by a string when he was in the tow of Caesar Celseo Moreno.

I saw him continually. Moreno tried to

WHAT THE KAIULANI SCHOOL IS DOING TO TEACH THE YOUNG HOW TO LIVE

BY MRS. WESTON COYNEY.

AS YOU DRIVE through to Iaoani your eyes accustomed to the barren land and sordid scenes that line the rugged way turn with involuntary pleasure toward a splendid residence that suddenly looms before your vision. It is set well back from the roadside. Its gates are wide open as if inviting visitors. Its beautiful lawns refresh one's senses, and its trees and ferns call up many a pleasant memory of other trees and other ferneries in a far distant land. And then one's eyes travel on past the beauties of landscape to the solid Romanesque style of arch structure fronting one, with its three big arches and its upper plazza of twisted black iron and its great eyes of windows which seem to beckon and invite one to enter. And, if you are not a timid soul, you will respond to the rude invitation and gladly saunter into the enchanted palace, like a knight of old. Later, when you emerge, you too will chant a psalm of praise for those who have made this wonderland a blessed reality to 500 little souls, whose own homes gave them no promise of expansion, no hope of anything lovelier than the four whitewashed walls of a Palama shack.

For this is the Kaiulani School! Yesterday was BIRTHDAY the birthday of the beautiful princess, who gave her name to the school her name.

In the big hall on the second floor appropriate exercises were held yesterday morning to commemorate Kaiulani, the Good.

In this social hall there hangs a half-length photograph of the princess in evening gown, presented by her father, Mr. Cleghorn. It showed her to the very best advantage. On the opposite side facing this picture is a medallion, framed in velvet. Out of compliment to the Princess, the Hawaiian room adjoins this hall. The American and Hawaiian flags interlace, each other and embrace a third picture. On the blackboard were bold and sketchy scenes of Hawaiian life, notably an ancient helau. The drawing was good and was the work of a pupil. Another represented Honolulu harbor. These were in chalk.

On the walls were scenes supplementary to historical study, a colored photograph of the Hotel street, lei women, and strings or leis, of seeds, gourds, shells, etc. For this is the Hawaiian history room. All the work, even to the charts, is done by the students. And fine work it is, too!

But as advanced educators believe that the PRIMARY DEPARTMENT preliminary step must be a correct one, it may be as well to start with the primary department. As one passed through an archway and entered the vestibule, one of the great glass doors swung silently open and the "open sesame" of Arabian Night's fame flashed through one's mind. It was in the nature of a distinct disappointment to discover the motive power to be only a little sweet-faced boy who stepped forward to take my card. Down a corridor I followed the tiny guide and finally entered a large and spacious room and narrowly escaped tumbling over six little washbutts all in a row. For it was Monday, and wash-day, and a line and three dozen clothespins bore indisputable evidence of the energy of the infant blanchisseuses. It is called the receiving class. As a matter of fact there are two receiving classes owing to the unusually large number of applicants, presided over respectively by Miss A. M. Felker and Mrs. L. M. Wood.

Miss A. M. Felker is not only a kindergartner, a Cul-FELKER, a California State Normal School NOVELIST, graduate, but also an author. Her child's book, "Toyan," is widely known and she is now engaged upon a "grown-up" story to be entitled, "Crumbs of Comfort." It is no wonder she tells such pretty stories to the children in conjunction with the object and picture.

"I am sorry you came today," said Miss

Macfarlane is to be patted on the back, asked to shell out a few more gold eagles and be told to watch his tongue and not go in the path of the sinner Carter.

WILCOX OFF FOR HILO.
"Bob" Wilcox was a passenger on the Kran yesterday for Hilo where he will be in the Independent legislative candidates and make a partial stumping tour of Hawaii. A mass meeting will be held in the Ruby City Thursday evening at which "Bob" will be the "whole thing." He stated yesterday that the time was ripe for another trip round the big island. It was suggested to him that he might make converts among the Shriners who are expected in Hilo from San Francisco on Thanksgiving but he said he would be content with Island voters.

The particular sentence hardest to forget or forgive is:

I can feel for myself that I am proud of his being at the head of the ticket on which I hold a position.

The Independent leaders and some of the candidates held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the party's headquarters. James Quinn was the only whole taking part in the discussion held a John F. Smith who was present to address the gathering.

Inmediately the matter of Carter's offense was brought up and a fierce argument as to the treatment of the party. In the Independent ensued.

Some were for firing him and Macfarlane to be out of the party and for extracting their names at once from the tickets. Others asked that a more moderate course be pursued and that Macfarlane who had not breached the Wilcox doctrine be spared and Carter summoned before them for investigation.

Carter according to the Wilcox stand and has committed the unpardonable sin he advised Hawaiians to vote for Prince David.

Macfarlane was shrewd.

He too spoke at the Democratic meeting Monday night in the org in when Carter erred so deeply but firmly confined himself to general praise everybody present and me cause the Republicans, saying a word about David.

The words of Carter that rankle so bitterly in the hearts of the Independents are contained in the following paragraph:

THE INDEPENDENTS SCORE HIM.

HE SPOKE WELL OF DAVID

Haole Haters Would Fire the Fence-Straddler From Their Ticket.

(From Wednesday's Daily)

The Independents have not dropped J. O. Carter and E. C. Macfarlane from their ticket as stated in an afternoon paper yesterday.

But trouble is in the air.

The fate of J. O. Carter is undecided. He may be slaughtered by the Wilcox gang and he may—if contrite and humble—be allowed to purify himself and enter again into communion with the halo-hating party.

Carter according to the Wilcox stand and has committed the unpardonable sin he advised Hawaiians to vote for Prince David.

Macfarlane was shrewd.

He too spoke at the Democratic meeting Monday night in the org in when Carter erred so deeply but firmly confined himself to general praise everybody present and me cause the Republicans, saying a word about David.

The words of Carter that rankle so bitterly in the hearts of the Independents are contained in the following paragraph:

I am a Democrat because my real lcker, the children have just finished their sewing and washing and the clothes and dish-towels, table-cloths and aprons. They are not yet dry. A girl motioned to a couple of old men to remove the evidences of the tray. But that of real value was the claim of the whole thing and the child's chair came back to the mind of the visitor. On Monday I wash my doll's clothes on Tuesday nearly press them out. And that is how it turned out to be. These girls are learning to wash on Monday and iron and iron on Tuesdays and to sew on Wednesday days and to learn cooking and house-keeping. Nineteen tables will be covered with napery hemmed by these tiny child-fingers. Napkins, knives and forks will be properly laid at each place and everything eaten at the luncheon hour will be cooked by the little cooks. Each child brings five cents to help defray expenses. The proper cooking of meat will be taught first, then later, the making of pie and an Hawaiian stew. By the way, that consists of meat (probably beef), potatoes, vegetables and red peppers, the whole thickened with fresh pot. It has to be carefully stirred at this period, else it will stick and burn. All the native foods will be prepared first, followed later by baked food, such as bread-making and cake. Stories about each line of work are put on the chart. This slip shows how the object is presented first, then the picture and the story follows. Oral and written language being used largely by way of explanation:

We have six tubs.
We have six wash-boards.
We have a bar of soap.
We have a clothes-line.
We have three dozen clothes-pins.
We wash dishes.
We wash clothes.

Some idea of the work done by these pupils is shown by the drawings on DRAWINGS. The slips which are entirely the free-hand work of pupils. The printing is done by older pupils. Every chart, every drawing, in charcoal, chalk or water color, is the work of some one pupil in the school.

There are several grades and the pupils all unite to help one another, and that is the true secret of the success of the Kaiulani School.

It is entirely a question of self-government. Corporal punishment is almost unknown. It is the same with the teachers from the principal down. And the pupils and teachers work in perfect harmony one with the other.

It is a big school. It comprises 500 pupils, a principal and twelve teachers, with extra special teachers for music and singing, drawing and painting, and agriculture. There are twelve large and handsome school rooms with every modern appliance for the comfort and well-being of the pupils. There is a library for the teachers and a reading-room for the children.

The children do all the CHILDREN work. The teachers super-vise, train, correct and stimulate, but it has been found best to let the pupils perform all the tasks, to get satisfactory results.

Policeness is required from the children. They are taught that the two little friends, "Thank you," and "If you please," go hand in hand, and if treated well and used filly, will smooth out many a wrinkle, calm many a storm. In passing out it was pretty to hear the different expressions, "Good-by," "Good-night" and "Aloha," according to their nationality. But each offered a salutation.

Some dolls were shown. Every particle of clothing was made by these tiny children. The dolls were dressed to represent different countries. Each, therefore, was in national costume. A doll's bed, made by the boys in Room 2, from old shoe boxes, was next displayed.

The mattresses, pillows, sheets, spread etc. all made, or hemmed, as the case might be, by these tots. Some of the mattresses were stuffed with excelsior, others with "Robin's wool," which has served many a useful purpose. Robin, it must be explained, is a sheep owned by Mrs. Frear and loaned to the school. They use the wool sheared from its back.

On Wednesdays, sewing day, the chil-ing my experience, because the administration of Grover Cleveland have all made me one. It is for you Hawaiians to decide for yourselves whether you go with the Republican party or with the Democratic party. I have decided to go with the Democratic party. If you follow me I shall be very glad. The Democrats have certainly shown you that they have no feeling against you or against your chiefs. They have placed the head of their ticket the all Kawanakoa. I can feel for myself that I am proud of his being at the head of the ticket upon which I hold a position.

If you wish the success of the ticket, you must work for it. You just all live to see that that ticket is in the hands of as many of your constituents as possible. I want to say to you again that while I stand with the Democratic party I am not one whit less the friend of the Ind. pendents.

The particular sentence hardest to forget or forgive is:

I can feel for myself that I am proud of his being at the head of the ticket upon which I hold a position.

The Independent leaders and some of the candidates held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the party's headquarters. James Quinn was the only whole taking part in the discussion held a John F. Smith who was present to address the gathering.

Many a Mother's Wish.

Many a mother of a peevish, restless, sly child has wished that her little one was as strong and rugged as an Indian babe. Such mothers can make their children strong and well, if they allow the child's system of worms, which cause nine-tenths of children's troubles. Kickapoo Indian Worm

Killer will do it. For centuries the Indians used it to make their babies rugged, powerful, fearless. What it will do for the child of the forest it will do for the child of the civilized race. That is what it has been doing for years. You can get it of your druggist for 25 cents. Be sure to get the genuine. The child's life is too precious to trifles with worthless substitutes. Hobron Drug Co., agents for Kickapoo Indian Remedies.
